DETAILED ACTION

The indicated allowability of claims 26-27 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Heimbrock et al. (US 5996149). Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 26-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Heimbrock et al. (US 5996149).

Regarding claim 26, Heimbrock teaches a radiographic apparatus comprising:
a top plate (24) for supporting a subject and being movable in a horizontal direction (14);
an image receiver (32) for receiving a radiographic image of the subject;
a moving mechanism (figure 8) for varying a position in the horizontal direction relative to said top plate (24) and posture (figure 12) of said image receiver; and a shock absorbing member (26 or 28) for avoiding direct collision of said top plate (24) and said image receiver (32) which is not in a horizontal posture.

Regarding claim 27, Heimbrock teaches a radiographic apparatus comprising:

a top plate (24) for supporting a subject and being movable in a horizontal direction (14);
an image receiver (32) for receiving a radiographic image of the subject; and a moving mechanism (figure 8, 12) for varying a position in the horizontal direction relative to said top plate and posture of said image receiver (32);
wherein said moving mechanism includes a locking mechanism (152) for preventing said image receiver (32) from moving in the horizontal direction in a case that said top plate (24) is positioned within a predetermined range in the horizontal direction and said image receiver is not in a horizontal posture (figure 12).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-5, 7, 9, 13-14, 16-18, 20-22, 24-25 and 32-35 are allowed over prior art.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

None of the prior art teaches a radiographic apparatus having a detector for detecting a position and/or posture of an image receiver and a limiting unit for limiting vertical movement of the image receiver based on a detection result of the detector as claimed in independent claims 1 and 32.

None of the prior art teaches a radiographic apparatus having a detector for detecting an obstacle present under an image receiver and a limiting unit for limiting of vertical movement of the image receiver based on a detection result of the detector as claimed in independent claims 9 and 33.

None of the prior art teaches a radiographic apparatus having a detector for detecting a position and/or posture of an image receiver and a limiting unit for limiting horizontal movement of a top plate based on a detection result of the detector as claimed in independent claims 14 and 34.

None of the prior art teaches a radiographic apparatus having a detector for detecting a position of a top plate and a limiting unit for limiting change in the posture of an image receiver based on a detection result of the detector as claimed in independent claims 18 and 35.

None of the prior art teaches a radiographic apparatus having a first detector for detecting a posture of an image receiver, a second detector for detecting a position of a top plate and a limiting unit for limiting movement of the top plate in a direction based on detection result of the first and second detectors as claimed in independent claim 22.
